HISTORY OF THE DEPARTMENT

WORD FROM THE SHERIFF

As I look back on the 150-year history of the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department, I can't help thinking of the exciting and colorful events of that history, told for us in hundreds of Hollywood westerns and kept alive in many modern rodeos. Much of that fabled legend of the Wild West is just that – fable. But there really were shoot-outs and train robberies and days spent tracking bad guys through the desert. And ever since the first Sheriff Robert Clift pinned on the badge in 1853, our Department has seen and been a part of it all.

Sheriff Gary Penrod

After Clift, a succession of 33 lawmen held the office, usually for only a few years each, until Sheriff John C. Ralphs remained the top law enforcement officer from 1902 to 1915. In the twentieth century the first strong, sustained efforts at modernization came about. We saw radio cars and radio dispatching arrive in the early 1930s under Sheriff Ernest T. Shay. Crime-reenactment, using sound and movie technology, and aviation came in under the legendary Frank Bland (1954-1983). Mobile data terminals (MDTs) appeared under Sheriff Floyd Tidwell (1983-1989).

When I took office in January, 1995, I wanted to continue the expansion of the Department's technological frontiers, but I also wanted to keep alive an Old West view of the lawman as a very involved member of the community. As a result, I created community-oriented policing programs dedicated to public safety. By placing touch-screen computers in patrol units, pursuing minority recruitment efforts, resurrecting the Sheriff's Rodeo, and working to make the Academy into one of the finest training facilities in the country, I have tried to combine the finest of the Old West traditions of civic involvement with the best of modern thinking and technology.

My vision for our Department is to see that we continue to serve the people of this county while maintaining the highest standard of personal integrity. It's important to me that our citizens look to our organization with pride and as a leader in California law enforcement.

Gary Penrod

EXECUTIVE STAFF

Undersheriff Robert Peppler

Undersheriff Robert Peppler is second in command, working closely with the Sheriff in the day-to-day operations of the Department. They oversee a staff of 2,845 and a budget of $285 million. San Bernardino County is geographically the largest in the nation, encompassing 20,186 square miles. The region includes 10 sheriff's stations in unincorporated jurisdictions and 14 cities that contract with the Department for service.

There are two Assistant Sheriff positions. One position is responsible for Operations, the other for Support.

The category of Operations includes Criminal Intelligence, Legislative Liaison, Specialized Operations, Operations for Region I (Valley) and Region II (High Desert).

Support includes Administrative Services (Training), Support Services (Communications, Public Affairs, Technical Services), Court Services and Detention Corrections.

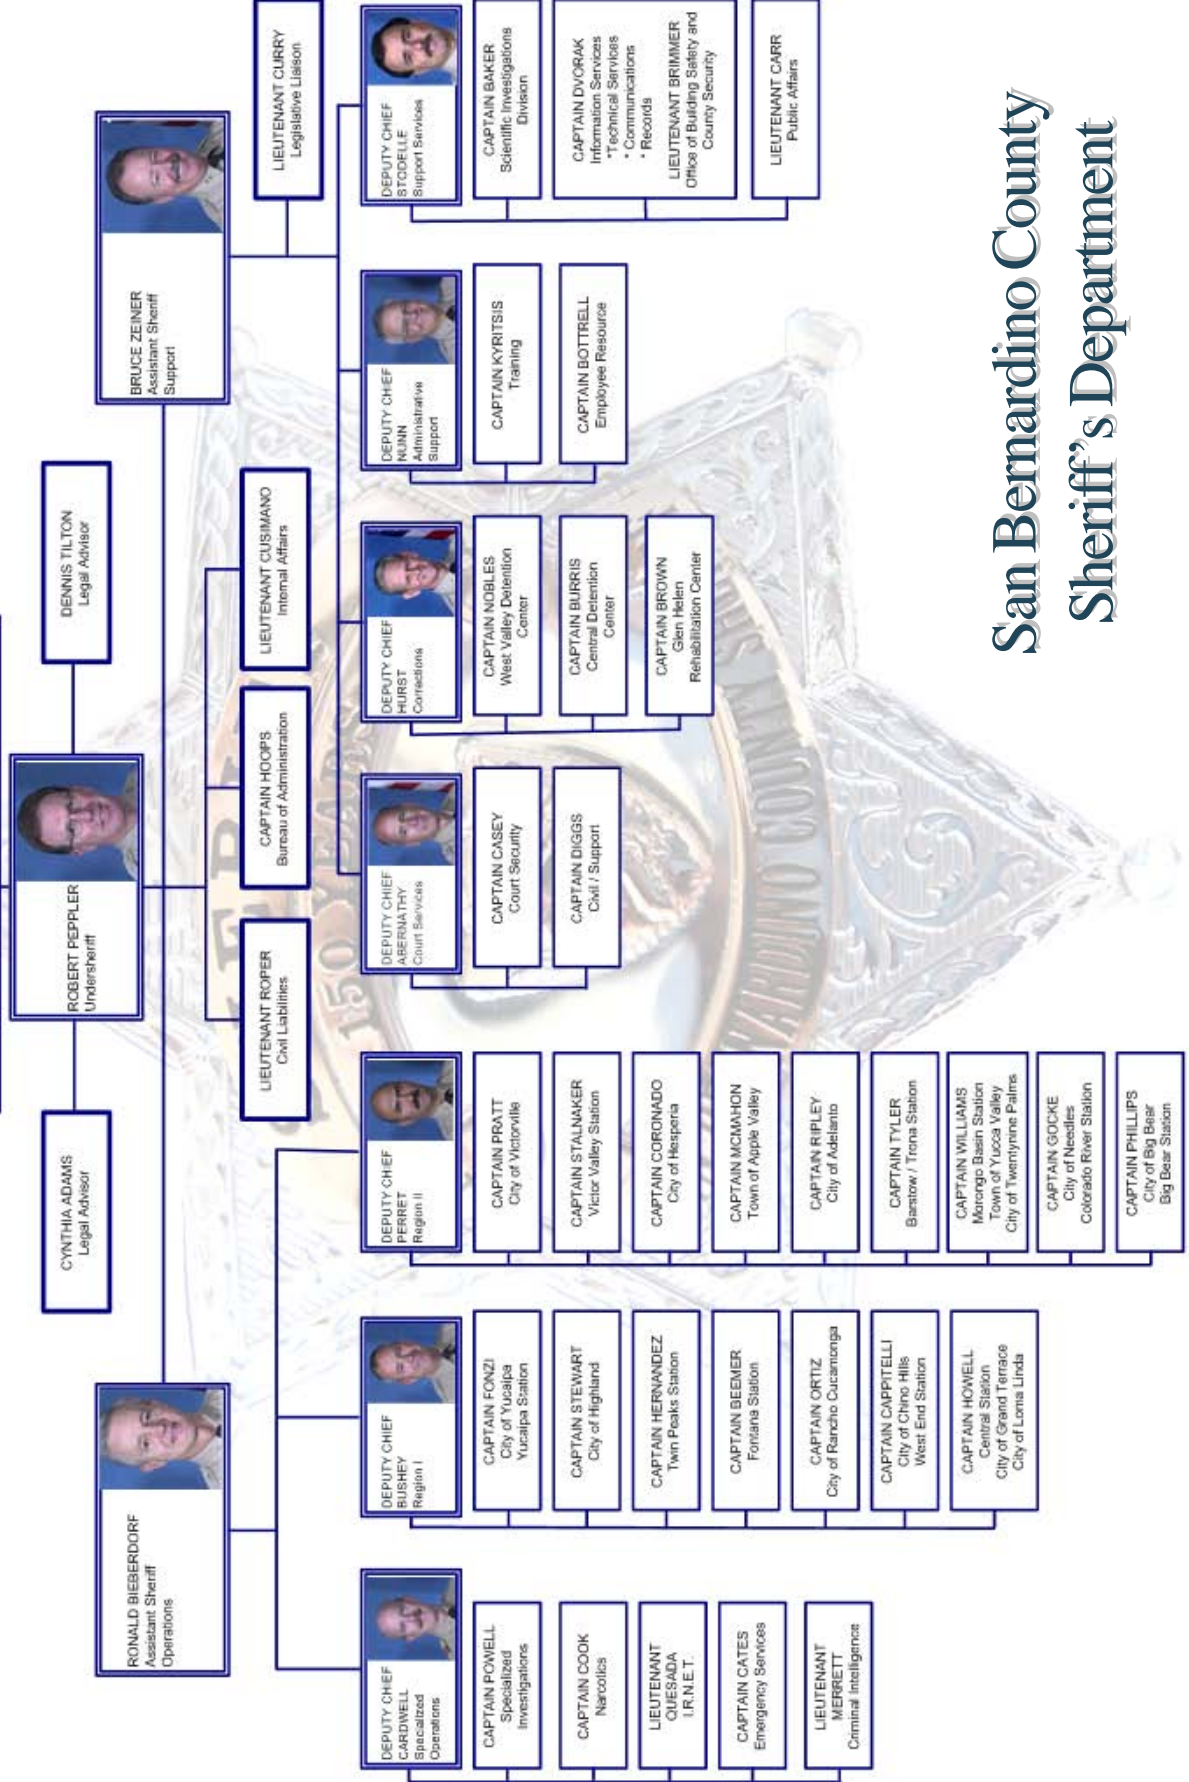

The Office of the Sheriff is also responsible for Civil Liabilities, Personnel Services, and the Bureau of Administration.

Completing the Executive Staff are seven Deputy Chief's. These officials divide the above operations and services among them (See chart for specific assignments).

EXCEPTIONAL SERVICE AWARDS

In a large organization that is heavily involved in such things as rescuing people from burning homes and cars, plucking individuals from rain-swollen streams and raging rivers, and evacuating citizens from homes in the paths of towering infernos, it's natural that sooner or later such an organization will formally recognize and honor the bravery of its members.

In 1977, Sheriff Frank Bland - mindful of his Department's long history of heroism - began the tradition of giving awards to deputies who had distinguished themselves for valor and meritorious service. In 1981 these awards became an annual event, but it was not until seven years later that Sheriff Floyd Tidwell created a committee that would handle the event, and expand the number of awards to include Lifesaving. Thus the Exceptional Service Awards were born, and the first ceremony was held on February 21, 1989, when 25 medals were presented to recipients in the University of Redlands Chapel.

Over the years the location has changed, and the number of recipients has grown, but one thing remains constant. The heroism of those winning medals is always an impressive testimony to the training, the character, and the heart of our Departmental family-members. Citizens are also recognized for their bravery and willingness to "get involved."

Over the years, the stories of the recipients have been astounding, and the tales of valor and derring-do in the face of harrowing dangers have become legendary. Many deputies have risked their own lives to save complete strangers from the most fearful of circumstances. Deputies have wrenched unconscious people from smashed cars - cars being dragged by locomotives. Officers have faced down heavily armed desperadoes with the calmest and most professional of demeanors. Deputies have repeatedly entered burning homes to find missing infants, and have done so until passing out from smoke inhalation. Officers have sent themselves to the hospital trying to save from terrifying situations people they did not know. By giving these individuals a medal and a handshake, we are doing the very least we can to thank them for service above and beyond the call to duty.

On the facing page you will find the Medal of Valor Award winners for 2003. This prestigious decoration is awarded to employees or citizens who distinguish themselves by bravery and/or heroism above and beyond the normal demands of the law enforcement profession.

VOLUNTEER FORCES

Volunteers have always been a critical part of the Sheriff's Department. In the late 1800s, citizens offering to help the Sheriff were instrumental in tracking down robbers and cattle rustlers. Volunteers also helped with what later became Search and Rescue missions. In the largest geographical county in the nation, the Sheriff needed all the help he could get.

Today the Department is home to more than 2,000 volunteers in more than 100 units - one of the largest contingents in the United States. The invaluable Reserve Deputies, Explorers, Citizens on Patrol and the Search and Rescue volunteers contribute tens of thousands of hours yearly. Volunteer Search and Rescue personnel help locate an average of 180 lost or missing persons per year, in terrain ranging from snow-capped peaks to isolated, scorching desert. The Search and Rescue Unit is responsible for training experts throughout California at SAR City in Barstow, a weekend training conference offering dozens of specialized classes and hands-on courses.

With nearly as many volunteers as paid employees, the Sheriff has said: "The Department simply couldn't function without them."

SHERIFF'S TRAINING

The Frank Bland Regional Training Center is a premiere law enforcement training facility. The Basic Academy has been awarded POST's California Governor's Award for Training Excellence on three separate occasions. More than 25,000 participants attended the instructional programs in the past year.

The Basic Academy program takes a civilian to peace officer status in six months: topics covered include Ethics, Use of Force, Leadership and Community Policing. Reserve officers receive training equal to a regular Basic Academy course.

Officers continue training throughout their career with advanced courses. The Advanced Officer Training Unit includes courses on Counter-Terrorism, Officer Survival, Traffic Accident Investigation, Gang Awareness, Dispatcher's Basic Academy, Citizens Academy, Search and Rescue, Racial Profiling and Mounted Enforcement.

The Sheriff's Range has the only live-fire house in Southern California. There are five shooting ranges, one long-rifle range and one skeet range at this state-of-the-art facility. More than 3,000 peace officers attend the Use of Force program every trimester. Courses offered include: Firearms Instructor; Defensive Tactics Instructor; MP5 Submachine Gun; Sniper, and Chemical Agents.

The Emergency Vehicle Operations Center (EVOC) is one of the best-known law enforcement driver training facilities in the country. Its mission is to instruct entry level and in-service officers. The facility also provides training to motorcycle officers, firefighters, ambulance drivers, and the general public. About one-third of the 3,000 students who attend this facility each year are from agencies other than the Sheriff's Department. Courses offered include: Armored Transport Updates, Advanced Defensive Driving, and Teenage Survival Driving.

Major projects in the works: A 30-acre "Scenario Village," a 19-acre explosives training range, and a new learning center with 14 classrooms that eventually will expand to 76,000 square feet.

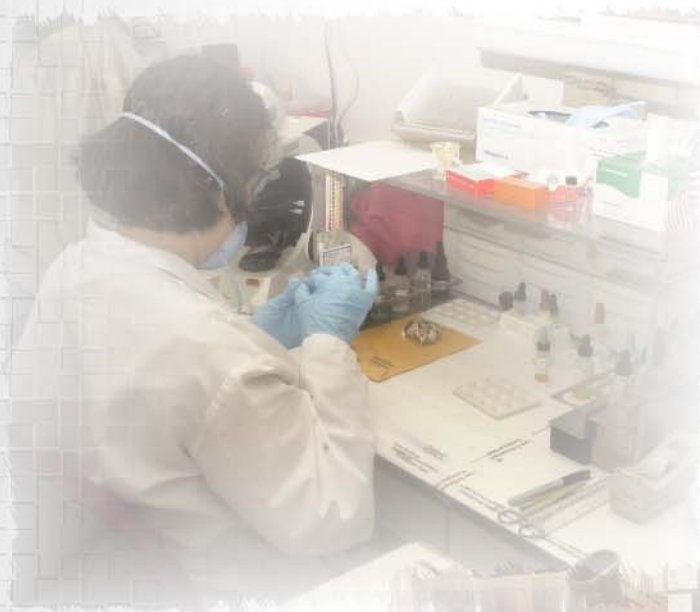

SCIENTIFIC INVESTIGATIONS

In this division, science comes to the aid of law enforcement, and, more specifically, criminal investigations. It is here that scientists, technicians and deputies come together to pursue such vital activities as:

- Criminalistics
- Identification
- Crime Scene Investigations
- Property procedures
- Evidence accumulation
- Crime scene photography
- DNA match-ups
- Automated Fingerprint Identification
- Blood and urine alcohol analyses
- Clandestine lab investigations
- Integrated Ballistics Information Networking

Working out of laboratory facilities in San Bernardino and the West Valley Detention Center, SID joins technology with solid police legwork. They provide crucial forensic backup to deputies and detectives in the field and courtroom. Operating on a 6.5-million dollar budget, these crime-fighters in lab coats responded to over 300 CSI requests last year. They collected and examined critical pieces of evidence that helped link criminals to crimes.

SID foresees combining Serology and DNA into a single discipline called Forensic Biology, and hopes to be one of the first laboratories accredited in the new discipline of Crime Scene Investigation.

COURT SERVICES

The Court Services Bureau serves the county's 86 Superior Courts in 12 court facilities throughout the county. Annually, they are responsible for the safe and successful movement of over 100,000 prisoners within the court system. Nearly 200,000 legal documents are served and enforced each year by this smoothly functioning bureau.

Serving all the communities of the county, Court Services operates facilities in Chino, Rancho Cucamonga, Fontana, San Bernardino, Redlands, Joshua Tree, Big Bear, Twin Peaks, Victorville, Barstow and Needles.

Court Services is administered geographically: the East Valley Region comprises the county's Central Courthouse, the Juvenile Court facility and Redlands Courthouse; the West Valley Region includes Rancho Cucamonga, Fontana, and Chino (there are 19 courtrooms in the Foothill Law and Justice Center alone); while the Desert/Mountain Region handles Barstow, Needles, Victorville, Twin Peaks, Big Bear and Morongo.

SPECIALIZED INVESTIGATIONS

Technically speaking, there are five separate details in our Specialized Investigations Division:

- Homicide
- Crimes Against Children
- Bomb/Arson
- Hi-Tech Crimes
- Polygraph

The Homicide Detail investigates all homicides, and unexplained or suspicious deaths, in-custody deaths, and officer-involved shooting incidents within our jurisdiction. The detail can be requested to investigate such incidents in neighboring jurisdictions as well.

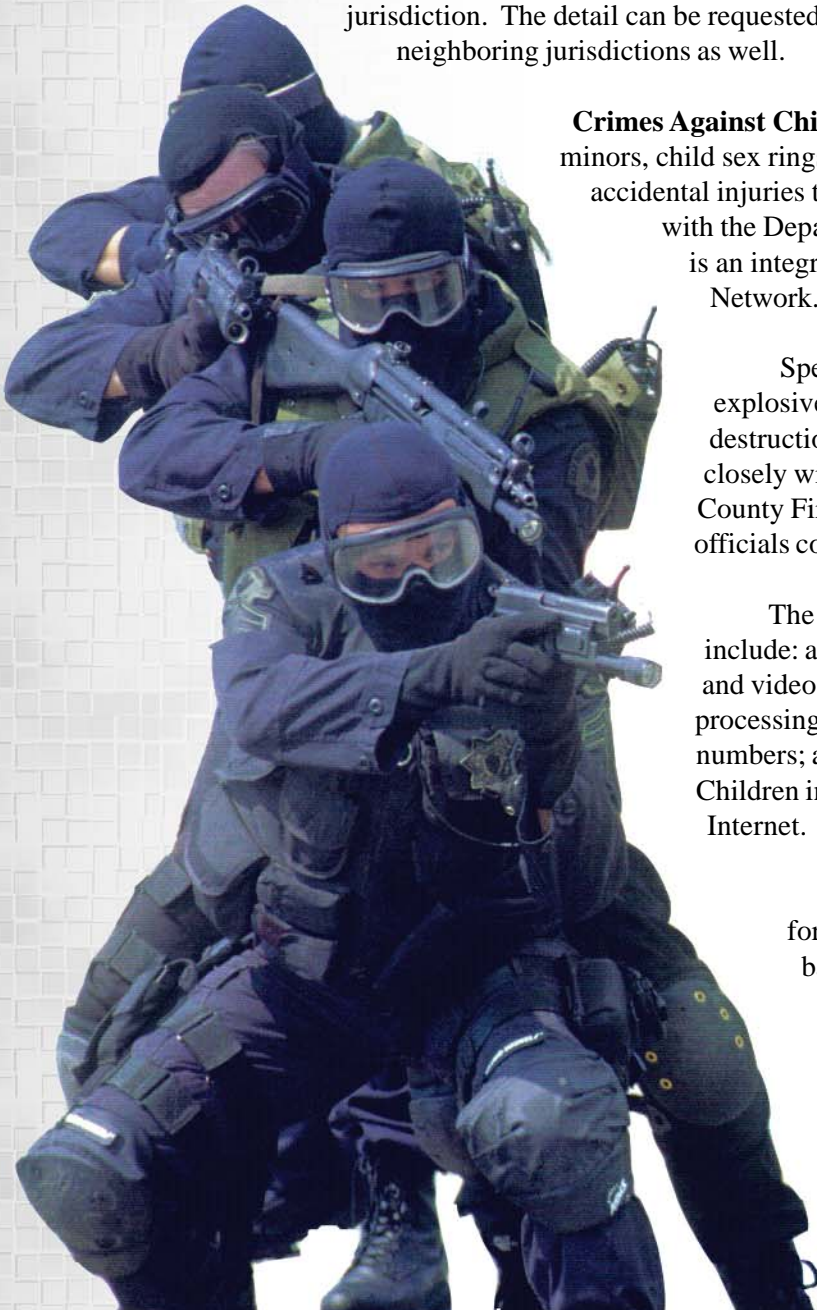

Crimes Against Children investigates: sexual abuse of minors, child sex rings, child pornography, and serious non-accidental injuries to children. This detail provides liaison with the Department of Children Services (DCS) and is an integral part of the County Children's Network.

Specializing in the investigation of arson, explosive devices, firearms and weapons of mass destruction, the Bomb/Arson Detail works closely with fire department investigators, the County Fire Marshall, and various terrorism officials countywide.

The Hi-Tech Crime Detail's duties include: archiving computer data; forensic audio and video enhancement; computer examinations; processing cellular phones and pagers for phone numbers; and coordinating with Crimes Against Children in hunting down cyber-predators on the Internet.

The Polygraph Detail provides support for criminal, administrative and background investigators.

There are several other "special units and details" that do not fall under the heading of Specialized Investigations on the organizational chart, but which are quite specific in their areas of concern. These include:

SPECIALIZED UNITS

- Aviation
- Public Affairs
- Narcotics/SWAT
- Mounted Enforcement
- Major Accident Investigation Team

The Aviation Division provides regular patrol functions as well as surveillance, Search and Rescue missions, fire suppression and transportation of prisoners. The division includes ten helicopters, one jet and two propeller-driven aircraft.

The Public Affairs Division serves as a clearinghouse for Sheriff's Department information. Here you will find various crime prevention programs, the school safety program Operation CleanSWEEP, and Crime Free Multi-housing. The Division also handles labor issues, coordinates the Drug Recognition Expert program, the Juvenile Intervention Program, and is the home of the Sheriff's Photographer.

The Narcotics Division - one of the region's largest and most active -- is made up of teams and task forces in order to provide a maximum level of narcotics enforcement. Investigation and suppression of drug manufacturing in the nation's methamphetamine capital is a particularly strong challenge. The Special Weapons and Tactics Team (SWAT) is comprised of deputies in the Narcotics Division. These highly-trained individuals respond to major criminal or critical incidents throughout the county.

The Sheriff's Mounted Enforcement Unit is made up of both Deputies and Reserve Deputies who utilize their own horses and other specialized equipment. This unit provides security at special events such as Hyundai Pavilion concerts and California Speedway races. The unit also participates in crime sweeps, and provides patrol functions in various climates and conditions.

Our Major Accident Investigation Team (MAIT) is responsible for investigating fatal, near-fatal, and multiple-injury traffic collisions throughout the county. They also conduct the investigation of county-owned vehicle collisions. MAIT's findings have led to the uncovering of unsafe roadway conditions in parts of the county, that have subsequently been improved.

SHERIFF'S STATIONS AND CONTRACT CITIES

For the past 150 years the Sheriff's Department has been committed to providing the highest quality law enforcement services to cities and unincorporated areas within the county.

Currently there are 14 cities that contract with the Sheriff's Department for police services. The first to contract with the Sheriff for service was Victorville in 1963. The most recent addition was the City of Adelanto, which joined in February 2002. Sheriff's contract cities are:

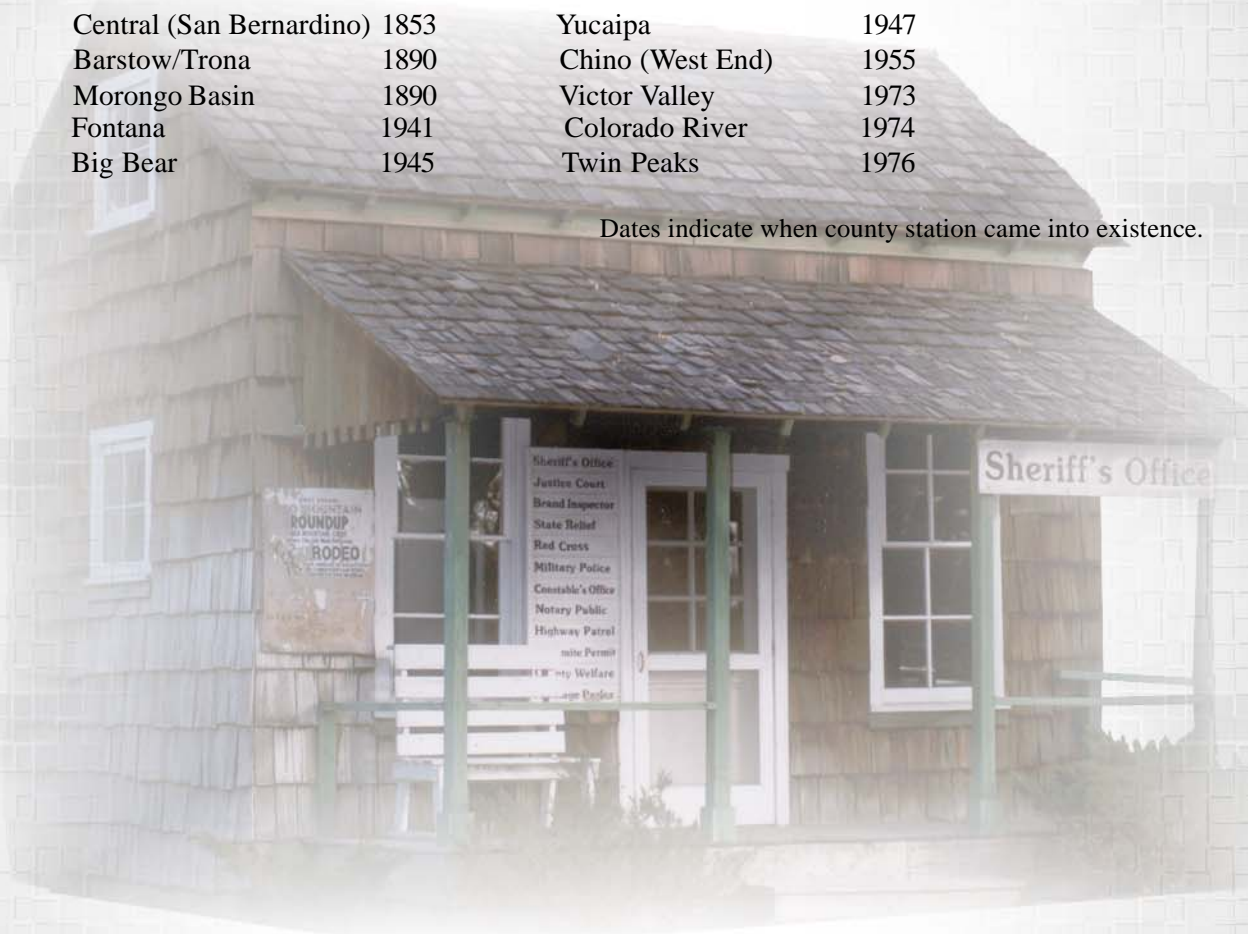

Victorville	1963	Hesperia	1988
Loma Linda	1971	Needles	1989

Highland	1988	Apple Valley	1988
Twentynine Palms	1988	Adelanto	2002

Dates indicate when cities contracted with the county.

There are ten county stations. The first was established in 1853 (Central Station), and the most recent in 1976 (Twin Peaks). The stations have developed over the years and provide quality safety services to all residents in their jurisdictions. Sheriff's county stations:

Central (San Bernardino)	1853	Yucaipa	1947

CORRECTIONS

The first Sheriff in our county, Robert Clift, used to detain prisoners in his home. Things have changed a great deal since the mid-1850s: today the Department's Detention and Corrections Bureau consists of three main custody facilities, and five patrol station jails. With a total daily inmate population of about 5,400, it is considered one of the "mega-jail" systems in the U.S.

The three main facilities are West Valley Detention Center (WVDC) in Rancho Cucamonga, Glen Helen Rehabilitation Center (GHRC) in Devore, and Central Detention Center (CDC) in San Bernardino. WVDC, opened in 1991, is the latest in correctional concepts, boasting hi-tech architecture and equipment. GHRC, opened in 1960, is the county's main facility for housing sentenced inmates. CDC, opened in 1971, is the west coast hub for transportation and housing of federal inmates for the U.S. Marshal's Service.

An integral part of corrections is the Sheriff's Food Services Division.

Culinary staff prepared over 6.5 million meals (18,000 meals per day) in the most recent fiscal year. Additionally, they prepared food for: Search and Rescue, Volunteer Forces and the San Bernardino County Fire Department. During the devastating wild fires this past year, they fed 13,372 on-scene meals at 16 different locations for 16 consecutive days.

The Health Services Division is responsible for providing services to all 5,400 inmates. Each is medically screened when booked into a facility, and, if problems are identified, the nursing staff ensures that follow-up care and treatment are provided. Of the 120 employees in the division, over 80 are nursing personnel. As tight budgets reduce public health care services, inmates enter the system with more acute medical problems, and these continue to pose a growing challenge to the division.

CORRECTIONS

The Transportation Detail is responsible for moving about 450 inmates every court day to the courthouses. As a result, transportation drivers cover an estimated one million miles every year, and transport more than 260,000 prisoners annually. Almost 30 different vehicles using GPS technology make up the transportation fleet, and a computerized system keeps track of their comings and goings. Last year the detail carried 13,225 federal inmates to sites throughout the state in association with the U.S. Marshal's Service.

INFORMATION SERVICES

One of the largest commands in the Department, Information Services, includes five sub-divisions:

- Valley Control Center (in Rialto)
- Desert Control Center (in Victorville)
- Records
- Technical Services
- Office of County Safety and Security

The primary task of the division can be put simply: the faster accurate communications flow within the Department, the better. Everything is designed with that end in mind. Desert and Valley Control Centers dispatch deputies in the field to over 25,000 emergency 911 calls every month. And when you're handling over 110,000 other calls every month, clear, concise communication is critical.

The Records Division responds to public and law enforcement requests for documents. This division includes: CAL-PHOTO statewide DMV photo-sharing database; the teletype unit; a central imaging database to replace microfilming; warrants; and fingerprinting. Recent technical upgrades to the Records Division have greatly increased its efficiency: the teletype unit alone has increased entry output by 11 percent, and mug-shot photo processing has grown by 17 percent.

The Technical Services Division is responsible for all technology relating to Sheriff's computer systems. The division also provides support, maintenance, enhancements and upgrades to the Department's information systems.

The division is approaching the final stages of purchase and implementation of projects associated with the COPS MORE technology grant. The grant has allowed for the new Mobile Data Computers (MDCs) and mobile software; Computer Based Training (CBT) system for the Academy; SAN - Storage Area Network; servers for CAD and RMS to integrate with the new MDCs and replacing the current VAX system. Also included are the 911 mapping server, Pictometry server, dispatch monitors and computer, CAD/RMS enhancements- software, investigative modules, employee modules and document management. The final phases, including the Justice Data Link, are anticipated to go live in the spring of 2004.

The Office of County Safety and Security's primary function is to educate and protect employees from potential hazards in the workplace. It conducts detailed assessments of county facilities, and investigates workplace threats. This division publishes a monthly newsletter that informs county employees on safety tips, workplace violence incidents and updates on terrorism threats.

GIVING BACK

The Department's impact on the community is felt in many different ways - not only in a law enforcement capacity. Employees give their time, energy and financial support to many different worthwhile organizations.

Employees are involved in many fund raising events for charitable causes, including: The Ronald McDonald House; Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation; Alzheimer's Research; and Breast Cancer Research. This year the Sheriff's Rodeo raised more than $20,000 in support of The Boy and Girl Scouts of America, local 4-H Clubs and the Challenged Children's Rodeo.

Other Department-sponsored events are likewise aimed at community support: Desert Thunder, an annual motorcycle ride from San Bernardino to Primm, Nevada; the Sheriff's Gift of Love Christmas party, wherein employees give to mothers and children living in domestic violence shelters; and Yellow Ribbon Week, in conjunction with San Bernardino County Schools, in which school safety is celebrated with a drawing/writing contest.

Firestorm 2003

The October fires destroyed more than 150,000 acres and destroyed 1,128 homes, becoming the worst disaster in county history. Incredibly, our deputies and volunteers evacuated more than 156,000 people over several days. At one time we had 135 deputies deployed in the mountains and nine command posts operating countywide. With 30 miles of mountain on fire, everyone did an amazing job. Our evacuation plans and town meetings paid off, because deputies and residents were prepared. Unfortunately, seven citizens died, mostly from heart attacks. There's no doubt that the dedication and professionalism displayed by our Department members made a huge difference in the outcome. I'm proud of you all.

BUREAU OF ADMINISTRATION

The division oversees the workings of a $285 million Sheriff's Department budget. It administers all city contracts, as well as all grants received by the Department. The Bureau of Administration includes such subdivisions as Budget and Finance, Contract Administration, the Business Office, Field Support, and Automotive Services. Virtually all expenditures in the Department find their way through this office. While working closely with station commanders, division chiefs, and county administrators, the Bureau of Administration maintains a strong fiscal heartbeat for wide-ranging Sheriff's Department operations, and ensures crucial financial funding streams.

- treat all people with respect, fairness and compassion;
- value each employee's and citizen's contribution to the department and the community regardless of position, assignment or role;
- create a work environment that encourages innovation, input and participation, and values each member's diversity;
- work in partnership with each other and the community to reach an environment where we are all accountable and responsible to one another.
